THE SCHOOL I LIVE IN

The school I live in,
115 Greenough Street,
The teachers and the students,
The people that I greet,
My friends in the quadrangle,
The classmates that I see,
All races, all religions,—
That's B.H.S. to me.

The house I live in,
The classes, clubs, and plays,
Dances, concerts, meetings,
The busy, happy days,
The hello and the high sign,
And the friendliness I see,
Football games and rallies,—
That's B.H.S. to me.

The friends I see about me,
The short ones and the tall,
The freshmen and the seniors
Together in the halls.
The lunchroom and the league room,
Full of laughter, full of cheers,
The school that has been growing
More than a hundred years;

The School I live in,
The houses, every one,
The ballots and the voting,
With so much to be done,
The hurrying, the strolling,
The million things to see—
Put them all together—
That's B.H.S. to me!

FOREWORD

The School I Live In has been chosen as our theme because it expresses the thoughts and experiences which we share in our years together at Brookline High School. Unlike most schools, ours is divided into houses rather than classes. These houses are named for outstanding citizens of the town, whose interest in Brookline's youth made them an inspiration for all.

DEDICATION

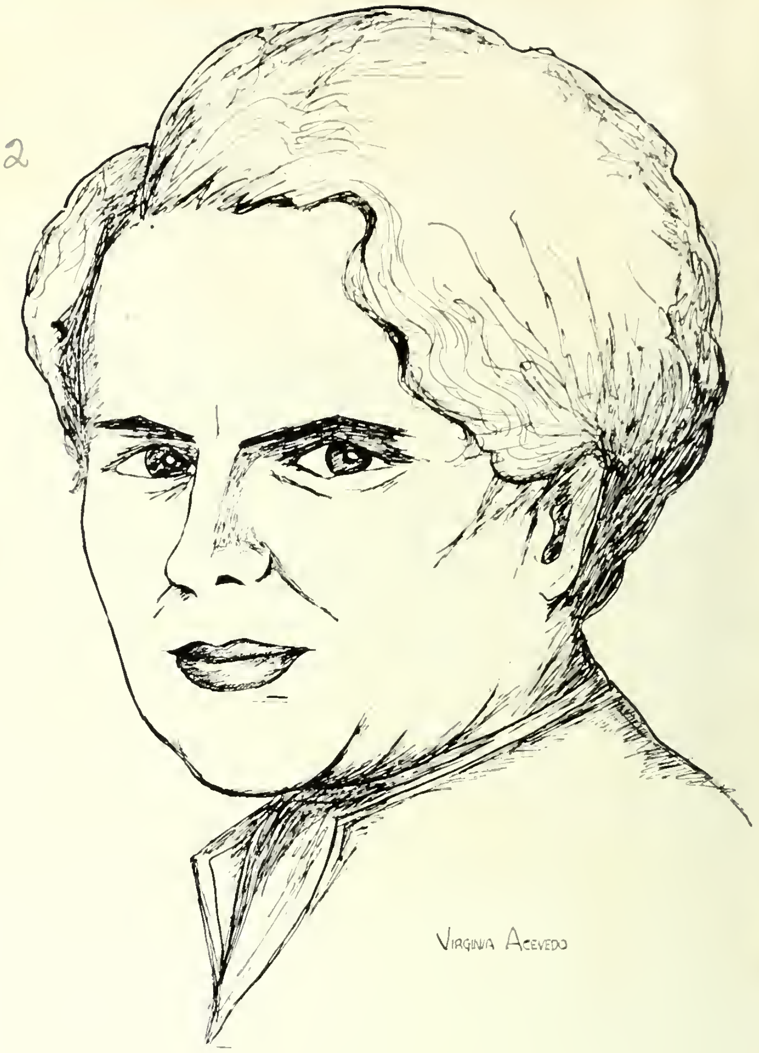
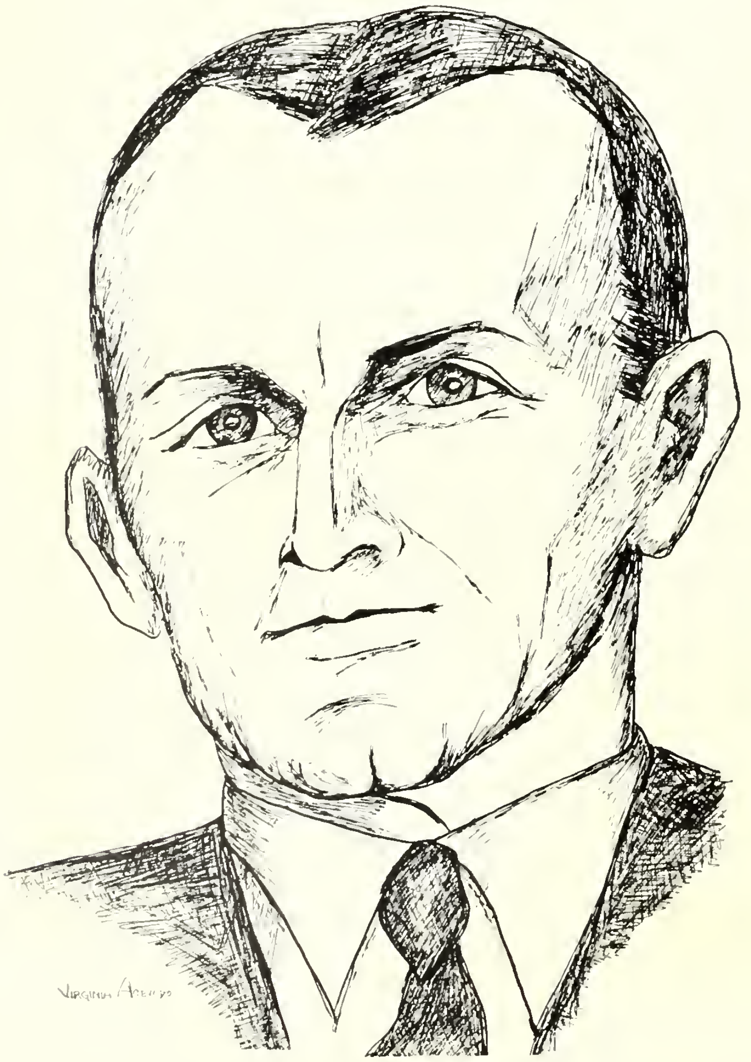
WITH the vibration of live school spirit and active democracy rising to a crescendo in the halls of Brookline High School, we of the Class of 1948 proudly dedicate our yearbook to the late Miss Grace Allen and Mr. Tyler Kepner. We thus consecrate ourselves to the ideals of a united student body, working two thousand strong, with more responsive and responsible democracy as its aim. It was with these goals in mind that Miss Allen and Mr. Kepner served our school untiringly for more than two decades. From both, the students of Brookline High School have learned to recognize and cultivate the sterling qualities of an alert conscience and an ever-present sense of justice.





The School We Live In has felt the stimulus of their noble standards; the trust they had in us cannot be betrayed. With their purposes in mind, we promise ourselves and our school constant endeavor, so that the spirit of B.H.S. may not be weighed and found wanting.

"Grace Allen's intense desire was to serve young people, to help them think straight, to show them the great wealth of literature, and to furnish them the means of attaining real richness of living."

—Alice Howard Spaulding

"Tyler Kepner possessed a firm and abiding faith in the democratic way of life. He stood for justice for all men of whatever race or creed."

—Edward H. Merrill

DR. ROBERT G. ANDREE
Headmaster

In two short years you have won our loyalty with your friendly personality and your power to accomplish. . . . Inspired by your perseverance and ability, we have found new answers to old problems. . . . Whether conducting assemblies, holding conferences, doing all that a popular and efficient headmaster can do, you still find time to stop for a friendly chat with any of us. . . . We are happy to have as headmaster a man whom we can consult so freely and meet so informally.

Dean of Girls

Your sparkling smile, cheerfully greeting us in our freshman year, is a friendly light which has never faltered in our years at B.H.S. . . . You, as our Dean of Girls, have always been willing to extend a helpful word of counsel, either as adviser to the Girls' League or in connection with our school work and college plans. . . . Your untiring efforts and genuine interest have helped us unlatch the door of success.

Guidance Counselor

You are indeed our friend in need, our Guidance Counselor. . . . You have won our deepest respect and appreciation for your sincere concern in our every problem. . . . Wisely advising us with a wealth of material gathered from your past experience, you help us lay the bricks in the foundations of our futures. . . . Invaluable assistance and a true friend are just across the threshold of the "open door of 201".

AERO CLUB

Brookline High's Orville and Wilbur Wrights can be found almost any time busily engaged in constructing and studying all types of plane models, or listening to lectures on jet propulsion, rocket power, and aerodynamics, courtesy of the Aero Club. . . . Today, in an age in which aviation is more important than ever before, this club offers to anyone interested an excellent chance to improve his knowledge of aviation, and of the industries and sciences associated with it. . . . The handiwork of these prospective engineers, on display near Room 331, provides us with the realization that the air-minded youth of today will become the successful men-of-the-airworld tomorrow.

ALPHA PI

A student walks by you in the corridor mumbling, "Three A's and one B equal $4\frac{1}{4}$, and my Varsity letter and marshalship give me 2 more points." No, he's not doing his algebra homework; he's calculating his credits for Alpha Pi, the honorary society at B. H. S. . . . Admittance to this coveted society, which rewards scholastic and extra-curricular achievements, is based on general excellence and leadership. . . . The golden key-shaped pins and pendant, proudly displayed by its members are symbolic of the true making of Alpha Pi, derived from its Greek translation—"quality and leadership."

ART CLUB

The Rembrandts, Dalis, and Van Goghs of B. H. S. will highly recommend to you that superb producer of posters, stencils, clay-models, watercolors, and the like—the Art Club! Many a time you've stopped to admire their craftsmanship adorning the corridors and library display cases. A creative urge or an appreciation of art is the only requisite for membership. . . . Additional fun is within reach of Art Club members in the many tours, outings, and picnics that take place during the year. . . . Always, though, the alert eye of each one is on the outlook for ideas and inspiration.

BAND

The beat of the drums . . . the blare of the horns . . . the marching of feet . . . the red and blue uniformed members of our band march down the field! This organization has helped raise the morale of our school and team, cheering us on to the clinching of the "Class B" football championship for the third consecutive year. . . . The band has always played an important part in assemblies, rallies, and football games. . . . It contributes greatly to the pride of the town, and now even the students praise its thunder. . . . Under the much-admired baton of Mr. Corley, the band has indeed entered a new era of greater glory for Brookline High.

BANK STAFF

A penny saved is a penny earned, chants Mr. Meyers and his chorus of meticulous workers. . . . Banking has a complex mechanism, and every other Tuesday it's this patient force that checks and rechecks, making sure that every penny reaches its proper place. . . . While carefully carting away your millions, the staff helps ensure you a solid future, for the nickels and dimes you store away today may put you through college, establish your business, or buy you a house tomorrow. . . . Working to keep B. H. S.'s percentage participation on the rise is a full-time task that not only entails hours of totaling and retotaling, but also requires tactful though vigorous publicity. . . . ## BIOLOGY CLUB

It sponsors the widely attended, increasingly famed Biology Night, and the science films shown in the auditorium. Its members are interested in the great world outside, in botany and zoology, and in learning just what makes things tick. . . . Visits to museums, field trips, and picnics are included in their wide and extensive program of activities for the year. . . . Money raised during the year is used to buy bigger and better charts, pictures, and exhibits for their department. . . . Who are they? Why, everyone knows. . . . They are the group of students who form the Biology Club—a club established at B.H.S. just two years ago, but which is growing more popular every day. . . .

Hold that pose! Click. Okay, you can relax. . . . These phrases might be uttered by any member of the Camera Club attempting to produce a winning photograph in one of the contests sponsored by the club to increase skill and creative ability. . . . Two groups, the beginners and the advanced, are urged to discuss and judge each other's work, to offer constructive criticism, and to use the school's dark room for printing, developing, and enlarging. . . . Many of the pictures you see in the MURIVIAN are products of the advanced group of this club, worthy examples of the talent of B. H. S. photographers.

CENTRAL TREASURY

"Where, oh where does all my money go?" is the cry of many students in B. H. S. The answer, if you have spent that money on club dues, is that it eventually finds its way to the Central Treasury. . . . This organization was originated mainly to insure the safe-keeping of the money of the various activities in Brookline High School. . . . If you ever happened to walk into Mr. Ehnes's office, you would see honor commercial students checking, re-checking, and checking again long columns of figures. . . . The Central Treasury handles its fifty-eight active accounts with responsibility and accuracy.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Don't forget, studious participants of chemistry classes, that reactions with $H_2SO_4$, inonizations of compounds, and experiments with disastrous $H_2O$ are not the only phases of this fascinating field of science. . . . No indeed—and the more illustrious Pasteurs and Curies of this club have set out to prove to their fellow chemists that man can discover the hidden exit to the maze of mysteries surrounding his life by delving into this subject of chemistry, and comprehending practical applications of it in his daily life. . . .

Do you know the meaning of the Catalan system or the Indian Defense? If you don't then ask any member of the Chess Club, for he will be sure to know. . . . This group aims to teach its members the fine points of chess, besides affording them ample opportunity to improve their skill. . . . # CHORAL SOCIETY

Something new has been added to B. H. S. . . . a music director whose zest and enthusiasm for singing rouses all who are with him to break into song. . . . Once a week, melodious tunes echo throughout the corridors as the fairer sex, in spite of the catastrophic (?) absence of bass voices, exercise their vocal chords together. . . . Harmony is achieved after long hours of practice. . . . Bombarded constantly with the do's and don'ts of accomplished singing, many of these Choral Society members blossom out into talented sopranos, and a few reveal an ability which might even compete at some future time with that of Kate Smith or Lily Pons.

COURT OF JUSTICE

"He's a great lawyer, a great personality, an outstanding advocate of fairness. . . . He got his start when he was elected to the Court of Justice at Brookline High." . . . The Court of Justice is the judicial branch of our student government. A chief justice and eight associate justices make up the Court. . . . All cases presented by the Marshal Force are considered. . . . The accused is given a fair trial, and the decision of the Court is final. . . . In organizations and ideals, the Court of Justice is patterned after the United States Supreme Court. . . . We have a model of self-government and honest democracy at a time when they are most needed.

DEBATING SOCIETY

The gavel sounds. . . . The fight is on. The wise on-looker places his bet on the debater from Brookline High, whose nimble tongue has been trained in the finesse of polite but vehement argument. . . . Your schoolmate, who may be a Cicero at heart, will find his golden opportunity at Debating Society meetings. . . . Here he can match his wit against more experienced speakers, fortifying himself with the fine points of logic, and learning to express himself clearly, concisely, and colorfully. . . . This year, debates with Phillips-Andover Academy and Newton High were added to the agenda, as our able arguers proved point after point with well-used words.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY

The Halls of Fame look to Roberts Auditorium for inspiration and ideals, for Brookline breeds with care its Helen Hayeses and Maurice Evanses. . . . Dramatic talent is not the only ticket for admission, though, as is proved by the hardy, hearty band of boys and girls who see to it that every play is publicized to the skies, every ticket sold, and every production well supplied with charming usherettes. . . . This year, besides delighting enthusiastic audiences with "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and "Our Town", the Dramatic Society sought out notables of the theatrical world, among them Margaret Webster, who drew the "Stage-Door" crowd to club gatherings. . . .

STAGE WORKSHOP

The house lights dim, the curtain rises, and the spotlight is turned toward a softly-lit stage. . . . Behind, hustling stage and electrical staff members manipulate the heavy curtains, manage the lighting, and efficiently add finesse to the Dramatic Society production. . . . 'Til the last second, paintbrushes, pencils, erasers, and other utensils are vigorously wielded by the master craftsmen of the Art Workshop as the atmosphere behind stage throbs with the sound of hammers, screw drivers, and an occasional "ouch!" because someone has landed on a tack, or a hammer has landed on a thumb. . . . Whether it be a fireplace, mural, or a piece of antique furniture, this able group of usually dirt-smudged individuals can provide it. . . . Enthusiastically they aim their vim, vigor, and vitality towards the target of a perfect performance.

Food for thought is the only refreshment served at English Club conclaves. . . . With this idea in mind, Miss Tiews and Mr. Newson have put Brookline High's intellectual interest through the screen of scholarly ambition. . . . Membership is limited to thirty "litterateurs" with a waiting list as chock-full as the club itself. . . . The elite society consists this year of two groups, Readers and Writers, who work enthusiastically with honest literary attainment as their aim. . . . Ten golden spaces in the membership register were saved for that precise number of fortunate frosh who were allowed, on the basis of first semester marks, to join the exclusive circle. . . . The English Club works to cultivate literary interest and extends a helping hand to those who wish to step across the threshold of scholarship.

FRENCH CLUB

B. H. S.'s Français et Française get together once a month at the lively, gay, "bien-aimé" meetings of the French Club, led by President Madeleine Artieres with the help of Miss Chamberlain. Hesitant freshmen and sophomores, spurred on by the more experienced upper classmen, speak en français, sing en français and entertain en français. . . . After the curtain comes down and the walls of the Speech Theatre shake visibly from the applause, the remainder of the afternoon is spent in singing French rounds and folksongs. Interest is stimulated in the life, customs, history, and culture of our French neighbors. . . .

GIRLS' VOCAL ENSEMBLE

The sweetest female notes which permeate the air around the school belong to the members of the Girls' Vocal Ensemble, a select group of singers chosen from the members of the Choral Society. . . . Audiences at school programs and assemblies are entertained by the music of these charming warblers who also exhibit their ability at meetings of the Teachers' Club and other outside organizations. . . . You must all look up on B. H. S.'s nightingales with much respect and admiration, for it is they, sometimes concealed behind the stage and at other times revealed on the balcony or on the platform, who prove how Enjoyable, how Enlightening, how Enchanting a beautiful melody can be—and that E from Ensemble also symbolizes the Excellence of their programs and the Enthusiasm with which they are greeted by all music lovers wherever they go.

"Adsum" goes the roll call as another meeting begins for the newest addition to B. H. S. . . . The Latin Club, affiliated with the Junior Classical League, was organized by the intellectual students of classical languages. . . . Although this is a novice organization, its newly-elected officers started the year with a bang! Club members are entertained by the exciting adventures of prominent school authorities; they play fascinating games to advance their knowledge of the classics; they hear musical programs by a talented choir. . . . # MUSIC SOCIETY

Glancing back at the '45 Murivian, you will note the introduction of a new organization in the galaxy of B. H. S. clubs—the Music Society—formed through the efforts of the students themselves. Heartily welcomed by those interested in furthering their appreciation of music and their knowledge of the great masters, the club has already been firmly established as one of the school's finest. . . . Nevertheless, Brahms, Shubert, Chopin, and other great classical composers are not the only personnages meriting the discussion and consideration of these music lovers, for often crooners Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra, modern pieces, and jazz enter into the monthly programs. . . . Backgrounds and techniques of compositions are carefully studied, and often lectures on some phase of music or on types of instruments are presented.

ORCHESTRA

Away down in the very front of the auditorium, in the small crevice between the first row of seats and the brightly-lit stage, is, as you would expect, a space. However, this is one space which is certainly utilized profitably, for it is here that a most important institution of the school, the orchestra, may be found. . . . Perfected symphonic arrangements and beautiful melodies are the results of many hours of assiduous labor as this generous mixture of strings, wood-winds, reeds, brass, and tympanies blend harmoniously together. . . . Opportunity knocks more than once for these students who have four years to develop their musical techniques in accompaniment with others. . . . Entertaining at many auditorium programs and on other important occasions, B. H. S.'s artistes prove their value as an enjoyable and very stimulating form of diversion.

The high standards of the Ensemble keep its carefully chosen membership down to a minimum. Indeed, a great deal has been contributed to the aesthetic taste of the students by these players, who take much pride in delivering polished performances of fine music that will never grow old.

According to Webster's Dictionary, pep is a slang term meaning "sprightly activity; liveliness; energy; vim." . . . When posters and streamers gaily adorn the lunchroom; when flashy red and blue skirts, sweaters, socks, beanies, and pins are parading, down every street, and are brightening the stands; when hundreds of excited teen-agers are cheering at the rallies, the vivacious members of the Pep Club are satisfied. . . . It is through their efforts that hordes of enthusiastic students are roused to bellow their fellow students on to victory—not only those of the football squad, but also the fighting members of the hockey, basketball, track, and baseball teams. . . . "Kill it! . . . Please box heads!" Despite the vicious sound of this lingo, you needn't be afraid to enter the journalistic headquarters of B.H.S., the Sagamore room. . . . Having instructed their staff in the techniques of newspaper work, these Seniors stepped out in February and the Juniors took over the management of the sheet. . . . Accurately-told news stories, timely editorials, and thorough accounts of sports and of other outside organizations distinguish the Sagamore, as a newspaper meriting the pride and the support of all of you.

SCHOOL COUNCIL

All in favor say aye . . and the vote is unanimously in favor of our efficient School Council. As the legislative branch of the student government, it regulates elections, grants charters to extra-curricular groups, and assumes other major responsibilities which promote law and order throughout the school. . . . Its members are elected from the Houses at large. . . . As the connecting link between the Marshal Force and the Court of Justice, it is American democracy on a smaller scale . . . a government of, by, and for B. H. S students.

SOCIAL CUSTOMS CLUB

What to do, what to wear, what to say—all such problems are within the realm of the Social Customs Club. . . . Besides increasing their knowledge of the ways of Emily Post and furthering the aesthetic interests of the student body, the club's members are constantly working with the improvement of B. H. S. in mind. . . . An example of their projects was seen last fall in the presentation of the movie, "Meet John Doe", to collect money for a Juke-box in the fireplace room. . . . It is easy to see that this eager group is a typical model of teenage progess.

SPANISH CLUB

"Hi, neighbors", said in Spanish, could well be the motto of this group, for its members endeavor to strenghten Latin American ties, and they enjoy themselves in the process. . . . Spanish games, songs, and conversation aid them in furthering their knowledge of and interest in the customs of our friends south of the border. . . . One could hardly fail to mention the gay festivities of the group's Spanish-style Christmas party and its popular June picnic, for they highlight the many and varied activities of its yearly program. Señors and señoritas alike appreciate the atmosphere of Spanish joviality pervading its informal gatherings.

STAMP CLUB

Though small in size, they're often immense in value. . . . The collecting of them has long been a hobby with boys and girls, men and women, princes and paupers. . . . We refer, of course, to stamps like those on which the Stamp Club focuses its attention. . . . History, geography, and a thousand other sciences enter into their study. . . . Whether buying or bargaining, trading or selling, the group's members are constantly adding to their wealth of interesting facts. . . . Don't forget your scrapbook when you run to join the club!

STUDENT FORUM

Are you in favor of the Marshall Plan? Do you agree with the Truman Doctrine? Subjects such as these are discussed by the Student Forum, a body of students organized expressly to broaden the scope of the students' knowledge of pertinent and timely problems. . . . The meetings are conducted in a manner similar to the American Town Meeting of the Air, in which guest speakers express their views, pro and con, on a chosen subject, with a question period following. . . . These gatherings furnish lively opportunities for you to state, discuss, and formulate your ideas. . . . Highlighted this year have been the presentation of two outstanding guest speakers: Rabbi Liebman and Harold Russell.

STUDENT HANDBOOK

You name it! We have it! If you are a new acquaintance of B. H. S. or even an old-timer, the route from Room 427 to Room 102, clearly explained in this student publication, enlightens you without the use of a charted map or compass. . . . Also made crystal clear are those high and mighty individuals with red and blue bands encircling their arms, the clubs with their aims and purposes, the number of points needed to make Alpha Pi by the skin of your teeth, and last, but certainly not least, the radio stations broadcasting that long awaited "No School" notice on stormy days is given. . . . Where can you find this and more? Why, in the Student Handbook, of course!

TOUCHDOWN CLUB

What Mr. Downes and the Touchdown Club discussed at those monthly meetings this past year certainly must have been potent, for they helped bring B. H. S. its third consecutive Class "B" championship. . . . With this excellent record nailed into B.H.S. history, Coach Downes is training the Freshman and Junior Varsity members of the club to carry on the glorious traditions of the Varsity members. . . . An important aim of this group is to further the players' knowledge of football and the students' interest in this great sport. . . . Each year's program is planned to include the popular Sports Dance, the exciting faculty-varsity basketball game, and the championship football banquet.

TO THE CLASS OF 1948

For four years it has been my privilege to guide you and the affairs of Lincoln House. This work has not only been a challenge to me but has also been a great joy, and I sincerely regret that the time has come for us to part.

It would be difficult to find a more cooperative and more thoughtful group of young people, and I am truly proud of you — proud of you for the scholastic record attained; for the ability and sportsmanship shown on the athletic field; and for the many activities entered into and services rendered our school and community.

May you be successful in whatever endeavor you undertake, and may you discover early in life that the secret of true happiness is in serving others.

"Help us, O Lord, to be master of ourselves
That we may become the servants of others;
Take our lips and speak through them,
Our minds and think through them,
Take our hearts and set them on fire!"

CHEERLEADERS

Last fall the B. H. S. cheerleaders, with their new red sweaters, cheered Brookline to another championship. . . . All but carrying the ball, these fourteen vigorous gals and two newly acquired fellows inspired our school to even greater athletic achievements. . . . As the seniors graduate, the echoes of the spirited rallies, games, and meets will remain a memory of the school we live in.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Brainbuster. . . .

One of the best football squads ever to wear the Red and Blue sported a record of seven wins, one defeat, and one tie this year, coming up from behind to clinch a third successive Class B title. . . . Having subdued Saugus, the mighty eleven went on to tie Quincy and to succumb to Weymouth; then, making use of their ability to "get up off the floor," they chalked up victories over Fitchburg, Ringe Tech, Waltham, Belmont, and Watertown. . . . The championship within grasp, a good Newton team was routed forty-six to fourteen, Brookline's highest score in the history of the classic.

Leading the iron men was Captain Gerry Keane. . . . Ends were Charlie "Educated Toe" McAdams and Charlie Trahon; tackle spots were nailed down by Fred Ravreby and John Connors; and able guards were Keane and Joe Forde. . . . The center job was filled by Ed Lenk; while in the backfield, aiding Mike Palmer, John Doherty, and Jimmy Fay, were touchdown twins Doc Haskell and Tony Misho, the chief offensive threats. . . . The local lads in the Turkey-Day tilt made a dream come true for their six thousand jubilant fans and for Mentor Downes, who this year completed a decade of successful coaching at B.H.S.

The hurrying, the strolling — The million things to see

JUNIOR VARSITY FOOTBALL

It was a gruelling schedule which the Jay Vees faced this year, encountering opposing teams of varsity calibre. Although they were unable to maintain their outstanding record of the past two years, sixteen wins and two defeats, they, nevertheless, concluded their seasons by toppling Newton 12-0. . . . With Mentor Clem McCann coaching for his third year, the well-drilled scrappy squad boasted such players as Tom Fay, Russ Fogarty, Jim Lavery, Paul Pender, Tommy Sexton, and Jack Sheehan. . . . Scores alone, however, were not a fair indication of the strength of the team, which practiced along with the Varsity Champs, starting in late August. . . . It is hoped that next year will see these boys sparking the Varsity attack.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Finishing an unfortunate schedule with only one victory to their credit, the Frosh eleven suffered from injuries to several of their aces. . . . Succumbing to the Cambridge Latin J.V.'s, Somerville Junior High, Rindge Tech, Needham, and Medford, the Fitzgerald boys had to be satisfied with a single successful contest against the Belmont aggregation. . . . Joe Wight, tacking down the left end position, was high-scorer of the squad, and Jerry Tasker, operating at right tackle, proved to be the outstanding linesman. . . . Though thwarted in five clashes, the freshmen crew has trained several linesmen and backs who in a year or two may be the standouts of the J.V. or Varsity lineups.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Many a thriller-diller was provided for B.H.S. basketball fans this year by persistent Varsity hoopsters who were capsized by the cruel tricks of fate more than once. . . . The Red and Blue underdogs never lost hope and evidenced more capability than raw scores indicate. . . . Captained by lanky Paul Flanagan, who efficiently teamed up with Fred Ravreby to control both backboards by dint of superior height, the squad was rounded out by Carl Cohen, Phil Cohen, Jack Diamond, Stelian Dukakis, Bill Kelly, Connie Lavery, Al Ross, Al Rothstein, Bob Rubin, Don Silk, and Bill Sullivan. . . . The spunky quintet looks forward to an improved record next season.

Coach—MR. BRUCE

JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL

Junior Brucemen, although surrendering their best players to the Varsity, fared well this season and accomplished what is always their goal: fundamental training in basketball techniques, and the coordination of a well-drilled unit, which, after two or three years together, will function smoothly enough to become a high-geared Varsity squad. . . . Steadily improving in each contest, the J.V. quintet, featuring the quick-on-the-trigger movement of Johnny Horwitz, Jim Kilgallon, Dick Kirby, Jim Lavery, Al "Chubby" Ormberg, plus the assistance of Charlie Smyth, maintained a highly sportsmanlike and cooperative spirit and developed admirable ability and prowess on the court.

GOLF

Last year Coach Fred Woodlock and the golf squad missed the state championship by the microscopic margin of one point, losing in the finals to Brockton. . . . With Leo Mullin returning this year to head the list of "iron" men, the Brookline putters earned a high rank in interscholastic competition. . . . When these golfers tee off for their matches, more student enthusiasm might spur them on to even greater success. . . . The secret of their prowess lies on the velvet greens of the Municipal Course and the Country Club where the swinging sextet practices assiduously.

VARSITY BASEBALL

The usual brand of enthusiastic B.H.S. baseball fans witnessed a plethora of good games this year as south-paw slugger Tony Misho, initial sacker, and hot-corner guardian Charlie "Doc" Haskell carried much of the offensive punch of the nine. . . . The pitching chores were capably handled by such standout chuckers as Al Rubin, Paul May, and Johnny Horwitz while others of the well-conditioned diamond squad, Jim Fay, Connie Lavery, Ed Lenk, Irwin Litronick, Tom Nagi, Bob Rubin, and Neil Werner, completed this year's aggregation. . . .Hit after hit rolled off the bats as the team's talents were ably displayed to their slugging adversaries.

WINTER AND SPRING TRACK

Coach "Bucky" Bates's boys performed admirably this year, considering the handicaps of bad weather and the graduation of such able performers as Aeschliman, McGarry, and Pickett. . . . The winter squad, captained by Doc Haskell, combatted some of the strongest outfits in the state, but asked no quarter and gave their all; Captain Bruce Strickland paced the spring tracksters. . . . Proficient in the high jump were Brooks, Haskell, and Harrison; Flanagan and Strickland shone in the running broad jump. . . . Shot-putters Paul Goldman and Tony Misho, as well as sprinters Dick LeVine and the Dalton Duplicates featured this year, with Bernstein, Halpern, and Werner providing dazzle in the hurdles and dash. . . . Dockser and Wernick show promise as future stars.

CROSS COUNTRY TRACK

In dual meets, the local harriers ended the season with a win-lose record of three and three. . . . Spurred by the indefatigable combine of the Dalton twins and Sheldon Cohen, the squad, also sparked by Phil Bouchard, Doug Buchanan, Fred Caploe, Colin MacGillivary, and Wilfred White, completed a fairly successful season, only to fail dismally in the State meet. . . . The speedsters started the year with a loss to Arlington but perked up to triumph over Weymouth. The Rockland tilt saw the Batesmen conquer 17 to 48, with Vas and Phil Dalton tying for first in a photo finish. After yielding to a superior Malden Catholic team, the plodders went on to subdue Brockton and came in third, behind Watertown and Belmont, in a quadrangular event at Belmont. . . . Bright prospects for next fall are Caploe and White, two capable juniors.

SWIMMING

Led by junior Tom Sexton, high scorer since his freshman year, the B.H.S. mermen, coached by Johnny Coutts, completed a fairly successful season. . . . This able backstroker mainstay of the squad was abetted by experienced divers Bill Cairns and Herb Beckestaff. Free-stylers Gardner Davidson, Paul Pender, and Pete Race sparked the aquatic defense with Charlie Eagan and Bob Williams, the "cream of the breaststroking crop," providing additional splash. . . . Mentor Coutts has a bright outlook for next year when most of his aces will return to report for practice in the local basin.

Coach—MR. COUTTS

TENNIS

Captained by Stelian "Duke" Dukakis, the tennis-team fulfilled the expectations of its racquet fans who prophesied a bright season for B.H.S. . . . As a result of the fall tournament, the varsity squad boasted of number one player Larry Harrison, three year veteran of the varsity, and one of the top seeded players in the state. In second position was Dick O'Hearn, an all-round outstanding performer; contesting for the number three slot were three seniors, Al Balkin, Stelian Dukakis, and Al Rubin. Rounding out the squad were juniors Ed Cauley, Ed Leavitt, Larry Lewis, and Herby Swartz. . . . Unheralded as the team was, under helmsman Wells the roaring racqueteers netted their share of successes.

HOCKEY

Brookline's spirited disk-jockeys under Coach Clem McCann, again swept the ice to a winning season, finishing well up in the league standings. . . . Starring on the victorious Brookline team were high-gear forwards Jerry Denning, and Buckley brothers, Tom Hines, Ed Keany, and Ed Lenk, who zoomed over the blue line and in on the goal time and again keeping the red light busy blinking. Rugged defensemen Captain Mike Palmer, Bob Carroll, and Harry Smith kept opposing goal seekers at a respectable distance from the Brookline nets, expertly tended by Jack Sheehan. . . . It was this combination of a bruising defense plus a high scoring offense that sparked the pucksters on to a grand finale.

SENIOR LETTERMEN

Sporting a flashy senior letter, an upperclassman rightfully deserves the place of honor he has carved in the sportmen's Hall of Fame at B.H.S. . . . Awarded for athletic achievement in any sport, or for unusual contribution to the welfare of the squad, the letter entitles the proud owner to the respect and admiration of all his fellow players. . . It represents assiduous work, tedious hours of practice, and loyalty to the team and to the school — a loyalty strong enough to spur its possessor on to the pinnacle of success, of a high enough calibre to earn this coveted prize.

OLD ENGLISH B

Glowing like an electric bulb, the proud possessor of an Old English B floats out of Miss Kelley's office on a pink cloud. . . . Who could guess that this small piece of red and blue felt could have such immense value? The explanation of the enigma is this: A medal of merit, it symbolizes months of unyielding effort, constant initiative, and five hundred hard-earned points for extra-curricular athletics. . . . The fifty golden credits awarded for each term of sports, with extras for reaching a varsity team or acting as locker marshal, mount ever upward. . . . They are the rungs of the ladder of athletic achievement, which lead straight to the goal of all goals, the Old English B.

ARCHERY

When William Tell shot the arrow which pierced the apple perched on his son's head, you can be assured that he had more practice than is provided in Miss Kelley's archery classes here at B.H.S. Nevertheless, even Robin Hood would be greatly amazed at the accuracy of these shooting femmes-fatales who have mastered the art of handling a bow and arrow efficiently and accurately. . . . Two small groups meet every Thursday, and the goal of becoming a member of the Honorary Varsity at the end of the term urges the girls on to aim for bulls' eyes every time.

BASKETBALL

When that ball sails smoothly through the air, ending its arch in the circle of net at the end of the gym, the glory neither goes to radar nor to jet propulsion. . . . In all probability, the "hoopstresses" of B.H.S. can chalk up another two points on its scoreboard. . . . The varsity squad, ably captained by Nancy Olian, practised assiduously every Monday and Thursday during the frigid fall and winter; still, each week held enough days for the four houses to play, in separate teams. . . . Mrs. Brusko's whistle, whether announcing a foul or the termination of practice, kept the girls on their toes as they aimed for even brisker, better basketball.

HOCKEY

Down the field they swept, wielding their hockey sticks with a mighty hand, blocking their opponents, with their eyes glued on one small object, the puck. . . . Who is it that would spend two afternoons a week, under the able coaching of Mrs. Brusko, chasing this obdurate piece of wood up and down Dean Playground? Why none else but the girls' hockey team, skillfully captained by Carol Bently. . . . Thanks to the combined efforts of Nancy Ball, Martha Cappers, Helen Noonan, Nancy Olian, and Marilyn Pons, B.H.S. put up a spirited fight for victory, winning four games, losing two, and tying one.

SWIMMING

Rain, sleet, or snow, every Wednesday afternoon the Brookline mermaids take to the water — in the luxurious Municipal Pool, of course. . . . Under Miss Sutherland's patient guidance, they plow their way through the waves, practicing old strokes and learning new ones. . . . The varsity team, chosen in September, swims with visiting groups in meets and play-days; the beginners, too, have their share of fun. . . . What more graceful sight does the tank offer than a neat "crawl" or the beautiful arch of swan dive? 'Tis the gals, swimming to keep their figures trim and their P.F.I.'s high.

GOLF

When, in the warm, sunny days of spring and fall, a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love, a young lady turns her attention to—golf at Brookline's beautifully spacious Municipal Golf Course. . . . Ever ambitious, they practice their putting and driving with a vigor that promotes novices to intermediates and intermediates to experts. . . . They visualize a golfing form as smoothly coordinated as "Babe" Didrickson's; they dream of the glorious "smack!" of a well-hit ball as it starts its sail through the air; and they envision, someday, a hole-in-one.

Coach—MRS. BRUSKO

RIDING

Many a time have you heard the startling cry of "Hi-yo, Silver" as the Lone Ranger trotted or cantered down some lonely path in the wilderness to the tune of stirring drum beats. . . . The fairer sex of B.H.S., minus the famous "Hi-yo" and this rhythmical music, do their trotting, cantering, or daring galloping down many lovely bridle paths at the Wright Stables in the spring and fall. . . . Thanks to Miss Kelley's helping hand, beginners, along with the intermediate and more advanced riders, have an opportunity in these classes to learn how to ride something more exciting than a circus pony.

TENNIS

Dependable Dean Road had its share of excitement this year in the form of dozens of tireless females, who flocked to its courts on fall and spring Tuesdays and Thursdays. . . . The playoff of the autumn tournament saw Barbara Parks come out on top after many a keen match. . . . With Mrs. Brusko skippering the varsity, and Miss Kelley, the intermediates and beginners, tennis-loving gals of B.H.S. had a chance to better their form and ability, divided into those three groups. . . . Improvement means advancement, so it was point — game — set — match — victory, as these racqueteers proved their skill and enthusiasm time and again.

JUNIOR NURSE'S AIDES

Last but by no means least, hats off to the Junior Nurse's Aides organized by the Girls League Service Committee last year. . . . Not a sport but a hard working committee, these seventeen girls served afternoons and Saturdays at the Beth Israel Hospital. . . . Working under the direction of the Superintendent of the Nurses, the girls performed the useful duties that hospitals welcome from nurse's aides. . . A bow to the Girls' League, Miss Poland, and Miss Sawyer for this community service.
